

JACK IZARD

Director of Portfolio Management and Dispositions

PROFESSIONAL HIGHLIGHTS

- Oversees the management and performance of 270K acres of forestland across the U.S
- Extensive expertise in forestry management, analytics and planning
- Well versed in land management, wildlife studies and the environment
- Bachelors in Environmental Thought & Practice from University of Virginia
- Masters in Forest Resources with emphasis in Finance from University of Georgia

Jack Izard is the Director of Portfolio Management and Dispositions for Domain Timber Advisors, a division of Domain Capital Group, LLC that manages timberland, timberland-related, and environmental investments for public and private pension plans, corporations, foundations, endowments and high-net-worth individuals. In this role, he oversees the strategic planning and execution of management activities, based on each clients' unique investment objectives. His responsibilities include evaluating acquisition opportunities, monitoring dynamic land and timber markets, envisioning and executing management strategies, and maximizing asset value through strategic dispositions. Additionally, he manages the annual appraisal process for the firm's timberland holdings.

In 2010, Mr. Izard joined the University of Georgia's Center for Forest Business in their Graduate Assistantship program. While in the program, his most notable accomplishments included the preparation and planning of the 2011 Timberland Investment Conference, an international event hosted by the center, and a contributing role to the development of the 2012 Private Landowner of Georgia Tax Handbook.